There have been designated by the United States Air Force nine Air Observation Stations in Bucks County. Monday, Bucks County Council of Civil Defense opened for the first time in months its Court House Tower, Doylestown Observation Station.

The first two observers to report for duty were Edward L. Fell of 348 Maple avenue, Doylestown, and Nick S. Molloy, 334 Maple avenue, Doylestown. EASTERN ROTORCRAFT TO HAVE NEW PLANT

Erecting Building, 80x220, Along Swamp Road, Near Doylestown

FINISHED BY DECEMBER

DOYLESTOWN, July 16 — The new plant of Eastern Rotorcraft Corporation is to be located at Cross Keys, a business area in Doylestown township.

A representative said the new plant will be 80 feet by 220 and will be located on Swamp road, on the same side of the Doylestown-Quakertown "Dream Highway" as the Key theatre is located.

Construction was begun about the middle of May and it is hoped the new, cement block plant will be finished by December 1.

An official said that when the new building is ready the entire equipment, personnel and plant production units will be moved from this place to Cross Keys.

Speaking of the disastrous fire which broke out in the plant, a former powerhouse, along Route 611, near here, last week, an official said: "Everyone of our employees are back on the job again and helping to clean up the mess."

"Fortunately, we had a lot of our finished products stored in a building in Hatboro and the loss was not as great as it might have been had they been stored in the Neshaminy plant."

"Eastern Rotorcraft Corp. does research and development for the United States Air Force and manufactures cargo securing devices to secure cargo in transport planes", a plant official said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

The Communists asked for a further recess in the Korean truce talks. If the Communists "insist on prolonging the war" they can expect even worse bombings, General Collins said.

Switzerland, explaining the arrest of a Lausanne professor affiliated with a Communist group, said an attack on the neutrality of the International Red Cross was an attack on Swiss neutrality.

No action will be taken by Britain or the Anglican Church against the Dean of Canterbury. Prime Minister Churchill, in the name of free speech, refused to take criminal action and the Archbishop of Canterbury said that, while the "Red Dean" was a "public nuisance" and bordering on "certifiable lunacy," he was not guilty of heresy.

NATO will create a Greek-Turkish Army group under command of a United States officer in reorganizing the Southern Command. Revolution in the Soviet Union today is unthinkable, a recent fugitive declared, yet there is a general passive, unorganized resistance to the Government.

The United States, because of "progressive restrictions" by the Kremlin, closed its Russian-language magazine "Amerika," distributed within the Soviet Union, and ordered Moscow to stop publishing

MIKE MURPHY FUND
TOTALS $1200 1ST WEEK

Committee is Very Anxious To Raise Twice As Much In Second Week

URGE ALL TO DONATE

The Mike Murphy Fund, during the first week, totals slightly over $1200. The committee, during the second week of the drive, is anxious to double the amount received during the first week.

The raising of the fund for the benefit of Mike Murphy, Bristol police officer, who has met with a series of misfortunes, is being endorsed by men and women in all walks of life. They realize that the salary of a police officer is not in conformity with that which is paid in many other vocations.

The Chester W. Terchon Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is sponsoring the drive and a committee is putting forth every effort to raise a substantial sum.

There are many who have not as yet donated to the fund and an appeal is made that donations be made as rapidly as possible and as generously as possible.

Over 100 Felled by Smog-Like Acid Fumes

Philadelphia — More than 100 persons in the Port Richmond section of Philadelphia were felled by smog-like acid fumes early today from a fire at the General Smelting Co., causing an entire block to be evacuated.

The fumes were spread by southerly winds and kept close to the ground by high humidity. The fumes, given off by a smouldering zinc compound, together with some from the blaze were described as "highly toxic."

Deputy Police Commissioner Herbert Kitchenman ordered officers to cruise about the entire area warning all persons suffering from heart ailments to leave their homes.

A total of 58 persons were brought to Northeastern General Hospital, including a six-month-old baby, four firemen and two patrolmen. At least one woman was reported in a serious condition. Emergency treatment by the Fire Bureau Mobile Rescue Squad was given to some 50 firemen who were overcome by the fumes.

BOROUGH COUNCIL

Endorses the Mike Murphy Fund and Greater Lower Bucks County Week

AND OTHER MATTERS

Burgess I. J. Hetherington, addressing borough council, Monday evening, spoke with great feeling of the Mike Murphy Fund now being raised through the efforts of the Chester W. Terchon Post, VFW. He paid compliment to Murphy as a patrolman and as a citizen, and urged that the fund be given every support possible. He recited the misfortunes of the Murphy family and of the family's need for assistance.

The burgess said it is time that the residents of Bristol realized that borough employees are not getting what they should. He also mentioned the numerous outside national organizations which are constantly appealing for assistance within the borough, and said that he thought it was time for charity to begin at home. He excerpted such organizations as the cancer fund, heart fund, Red Cross and Salvation Army. He said that he hoped the people of Bristol will support the Murphy Fund.

Causes Considerable Criticism at Meeting

A WATER SCARCITY

Councilman Harold J. Kendall said: "I'm not objecting to the Authority but I think we should know what terms they have for us before we turn our entire water system over to them."

Kendall further stated: "The claim has been made that there would be no increase in taxes. But, four years ago the people voted for these improvements and paid an increase in water rents and still have nothing to show for it."

The plan, proposed by three councilmen, would turn the water system over to the Authority, and increase the supply from 900,000

RECORDS AND HOPES

Most newswise people are aware of the significance of the moment which occurred when the superliner United States came abeam of Bishop's Rock, a grim outcrop at the western-most end of the Scilly Isles and the traditional finish line in transatlantic liner races. The new ocean queen clipped a handsome 10 hours and two minutes from the longstanding Atlantic crossing record.

The liner also hung up another unofficial record when she arrived at Le Havre, her eastern terminus. Never before had a transatlantic liner dropped her hook off the breakwater of that French port only three days, 17 hours and 48 minutes out of Ambrose Light.
The 35.59 knot pace set by the American ship greatly eclipsed the 29-knot speed set regularly by the French liner Normandie in her heyday prior to the war.

With the first flush worn off this feat of engineering and seamanship it is possible to reflect upon its full significance. The Normandie and Britain's Queens were built as troop ships, and so was the United States. The Normandie sank at her dock through bad luck, but the Queens hauled thousands of troops during World War II, fleeing unescorted from port to port.

Presumably the United States which embodies many naval characteristics, can do the same job as the Queens, despite the increased speed of submarines and lethal new pieces of ordnance such as the homing torpedo.
Americans can take a great deal of pride in her accomplishments, and hope that she never has to swap her colorful habit for Navy gray.

The Atlantic crossing record was last held by an American-built and owned ship in 1851, when the wooden paddle steamers of the Collins Line were—according to the Encyclopedia Britanica—"the most noteworthy ships on the Atlantic in their day."

PEOPLE EAT LESS

Cursory observation of the gas-tronomic habits of the nation reveal that people eat less today than formerly, or at least eat different foods served differently. The snack, to a large extent, has replaced the dinner of over-sized portions.

It could almost be said that people today practically inhale their breakfast and lunch, and while the evening meal on the whole is more pretentious, it does not approach the proportions of the provender-laden tables of old.

An evolutionary process in occupations as well as the mental approach to food has brought about this change in dietary habits of the American people. Fewer people today engage in strenuous occupations that require heavy meals. And more persons, especially women, are weight conscious. Perhaps the latter factor has been the most persuasive in directing the populace's attention to food or abstinence therefrom.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO, July 16—

After 20 years of nominating their presidential candidates on the first ballot, Democrats are headed next week for a free-for-all convention battle that may destroy present party structure.

Since 1932 the Democratic party has been able to settle its factional fights between the north and south by compromising on a vice president. This year in Chicago the battle for control will be fought over the head of the party ticket and there is nowhere in sight a strong man or likely compromise candidate.

The party's current disorder is part of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's bequest. He repeatedly beat down other hopefuls either by brute force from machine politicians in control of the party or by deft lying. His tactics broke the backs of many competent men, leaving the party today without an adequate heir to the White House.

President Truman has played the Roosevelt game at National Conventions with the same intensity.
Now, in abandoning his leadership, he unleashed a wolf pack of eager candidates who have lined up on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line with a snarl. The President has, out of design or ignorance, helped widen the party breach with repeated attacks on southern handling of Civil Rights problems. He also has angered southern Congressmen by sidetracking them on patronage matters.

The best the president and his entourage of machine politicians in Chicago can do is attempt to build through a nominee. If that is done without an effort being made to satisfy the south, a convention deadlock is a certainty and a walkout more than a probability.

Northern Democrats already have had ample warning of the south's political temper. Gov.
James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the late President Roosevelt's convention victims, has set up the battle-ground. At the Houston, Texas, Governor's conference last month, Byrnes proposed a convention walkout if the northern Democrats fail to seat anti-administration delegates from Texas. He also declared that the south won't buy Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, as the Democratic presidential nominee.

Democratic candidates who sounded pious over the GOP Texas delegate scrap are now talking out of the other side of their mouths.
They have been assured a rip-roaring Texas wrangle of their own and it will devastate party harmony if given free rein. The south won't settle for a compromise candidate for the vice president this year.

Southern politicians want a large piece of the top nominee, and the Texas delegates scrap will be used to force the issue.

The Democrats are no strangers to deadlocked conventions. In 1920 there were 41 roll calls before a candidate for the presidency was named. In 1924, 103 rolls calls were needed to nominate John W. Davis.
I never instance of a Democratic convention deadlock the nomination has gone to a dark horse or favorite son.

This year the Democrats will have to reach deep into the political grab bag to find either one Outside of Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, Democratic presidential hopefuls are second-raters. This includes the highly touted W. Averell Harriman, who has expected that his shaky tenor voice, crying out from New Deal jungles, would lull the convention into naming him. If it does, Democrats might just as well stay home this November. Even with 20 years of patronage behind them, with the full resources of the national treasury and the major propaganda outlets in the nation peddling their political guff, northern Democrats would look ludicrous trying to make a great man out of Harriman.

There is a slight suspicion, however, that Truman and the bosses have just this in mind. Outside of Gov. Stevenson, Harriman is just about the only Democrat who has been treated courteously at the White House since the nominating race got underway. If he is their man, southern delegates can save themselves a trip to Chicago. They won't have time to take off their hats before the walkout gets under way.

although quarters for the Illinois Governor will be opened today. Senator Kefauver said he would be named on the fifth or sixth ballot.
The convention, Mr. McKinney said, would open at about noon Monday and, he hoped, end Thursday night under a streamlined procedure limiting speeches. Hearings that start today on the party's platform are expected to be enlivened by a demand for a "strong" civil rights program and by an effort by Senator Lehman to put the party on record against filibusters.

I commend and thank our local assessors for the manner in which they are doing the job assigned them by our State Legislature. It is noted we have three mills assessed for debt purposes. As the debt for which this tax was levied has been considerably reduced and the value of our property assessments has been or will be greatly increased over what they were when this debt was incurred, it may be possible to reduce this tax at least one mill when our budget is next considered. I would appreciate our Finance Committee keeping this matter before them for consideration.

ning Board at which Director Franklin Wood reported on State Aid to local Boroughs and Town-urged that their needs be presented to the committee as soon as pos-not see this article I urge that they investigate the significance of the article at once thru the Bucks money this year for their program than ever before and while it is too late to do anything about it this tact our School authorities to as-that he believed much was learned and that there would be a much better understanding between the councilmen and the Rohm & Haas Co., of the problems and what is being done to meet them.

Continuing, he said:
"During the week of July 20th to 26th inclusive under the auspices of the Bristol Chamber of Commerce and the leadership of Messrs.
Stephen Midouhas and Horace Schmidt, Greater Lower Bucks County Week will be observed for the first time here in Bristol with every community in that particular section of our County taking an active part. The many activities for the week will end with a huge parade on Saturday the 26th in which all communities, all industry, fraternal and social clubs and veterans organizations are urged to take part. The citizens of Bristol, particularly those living along the route of the parade, should see to it that their residences or places of business are liberally decorated with our national colors.
We should not only set the standard for future celebrations by our whole-hearted co-operation but set one that will be hard to beat. This very active week will be brought to a close by a Drum and Bugle Corps contest held in the evening on our high school field under the direction of our local American Legion Post.

"Several times I have suggested or recommended to this Council the formation of a planning group, committee or commission serving voluntarily and without pay, composed of the best minds in Bristol.
The membership of this group, to be recommended by the members of Council, should include Engineers, Bankers, Lawyers, Industrialists, Business Men and just plain citizens. Such a group could be formed and be of inestimable value to Council in its approach to many matters and problems that now and will in the future confront it. Bristol has a very bright future but the opportunity can be muffed very easily.

"Progress and economic munici-however. I am definitely not in favor of increasing our tax rates for the reason I have always believed a just equalization of property assessments at the present rates would more than provide sufficient funds to properly operate our Borough. In fact while not wholly in accord with the manner in which the state directed so-called equalization of property assessments is being accomplished, if the present activity of our assessors is continued and honestly supported and upheld by our County Commissioners it is possible a reduction can be made in the local tax rate for

Carriage Important to Grace

Katja of Sweden dresses How do you stand? Correct carriage and graceful movement are vital to beauty.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DO you sit pretty, walk and stand pretty? If not, you are being mean to yourself and your figure, which shouldn't look rigid or be allowed to slump. Carry yourself splendidly and gallantly. It isn't the woman with the most expensive clothes who appears distinguished, but the one who knows how to wear her clothes and keeps her spinal column on the job.

Here is an exercise: stand with feet four inches away from wall.
Now, spread feet four inches apart and lean against the wall.
First bend your knees, then separate them. Take your buttocks away from the wall, dig your waistline into it. So far, so good.
Now push your back up the wall until your legs are almost straight. Lift your chin so your neck is nearer the wall. Then walk away in the same position.
This exercise is not as intricate as it sounds, and it is fun doing it.

Cross Your Ankles

When sitting, sit far back in the chair. Keep the upper portion of your body erect, but not rigid.
Cross your ankles if you wish, but not your knees. Toes straight forward. Let your arms have an easy pose.

No movie star would ever have made the grade without a knowledge of correct carriage and graceful movements. No lady of fashion would have got that reputation without a natural air of distinction. She keeps her chest high, her head on the level, the abdominal muscles held in and upward.

Lugging Habits

The homemaker who lugs bundles of groceries must watch her lugging habits. She should not subject just one side of her body to strain, and she will do this if she always carries a heavy bag of merchandise under one arm. When having her parcels wrapped at the store, they should be divided into two packages of equal weight and equal size. Or, if that is impossible, she should stop now and then on the way home and change arms to equalize strain.

All these small matters count in the important matter of preserving youthful outline.

possible for the children of Bristol.
"On the 10th inst. I attended a very interesting meeting of the Water Committee at which our water situation was discussed including the proposed application for Federal Funds. While the Chairman of the water committee will no doubt mention this in his report I have been informed that the Federal Government will only allocate 5% of the total cost of any project which does not make it too attractive, however, the Committee I trust will look further into this thru handling with Congressman King. In this connection as you all know Bristol is selling its water to industry at ridiculously low rates after 500,000 gallons per day consumption has been reached—this matter was also thoroughly discussed and it was finally decided to hold a meeting attended by all members of Council and the Official Borough family including our Consultant Engineer, Mr. Boardman, and to which the concerned industries of which there are several would be invited. I trust the Committee's report includes this item and if such a meeting is held I would greatly appreciate the attendance of all councilmen as it will give us the opportunity to consider this very vexing problem at length and should result ben-eficially to our Borough."

"Sweet Eighteen" Should Be An Age of Allure and Charm

Coffure by Vincent & Joseph, Philadelphia Young beauties wisely choose becoming coiffures, but hair care means other things, too—frequent shampoo, daily brushing.

WE are always hearing about "sweet sixteen." How about "sweet eighteen" and "sweet twenty"? They are even more alluring ages because they mean a gal's had a few more years to learn how to make herself attractive to the eye. It's beauty first with all young girls! Health is just something that tiresome adults talk about. Yet, without it, pulchritude cannot be. Ponder on that for a minute or two.

Girls groom their hair so it will look pretty, not to keep the growth in a healthy condition.
They think that matter will take care of itself. Let them wield the hairbrush every night to keep the glorious halo in form.

Complexion Care

Because they have a horror of blackheads or acne, they do wash their faces carefully, but often just in the morning. Sometimes they go to bed with rouge still on their pretty cheeks and the lip-smear radiant. That's bad. Face washing should be done diligently at bedtime so the complexion will have a chance to rest and breathe during slumber. A little cream should be applied after the lathering to keep the skin smooth and soft.

High school and college girls don't talk about weight as much as formerly but physical education instructors report that they seldom pass by the scales, but step on and watch the poundage register with interest. They want curves, but not in the wrong places, the tummy or derriere.

Around the twenty-age period, posture is only fair. The girl who carries herself with splendor stands out among her companions. It gives her an air. It imparts style. She may not know it, but it is a sort of insurance against the addition of adipose tissue, because her muscles are working harmoniously, are strong and resilient. Fat cells are seeking soft lazy fibers on which to build their adipose tenements.

Baum Paints Picture As Crowd Watches at Tinicum Art Festival

ERWINNA, July 16—A group of 700 attended the annual Tinicum Art Festival on the lawn of the Wm. A. Stover home here Saturday. Tinicum Improvement Association was the sponsor.

Carl Damm, of Upper Black Eddy, was awarded the oil painting of a Bucks county covered bridge, painted by Walter E. Baum, well known Bucks county artist, at the festival. Mr. Baum painted the picture from start to finish while surrounded by interested spectators.

The first prize for flower arrangements was won by 11-year-old Shelly Goulding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goulding.

Mrs. Julie Bauer won the two first awards in vegetable arrangements.

Activities during the afternoon and evening included roving artists, who sketched portraits and caricatures, Charles Strauss and T. Wahl; a demonstration of sculpture, Mrs. Anita Weschler; pastels, Mrs. Hilah Remaly; music was provided by R. Perry and G. Place.

The "Holly's" of Bensalem twp., exhibited over 1,000 masks, described the people so shown and gave mimicry in song and patter.

The proceeds from the annual festival are used by the vote of the Tinicum Improvement Association members for the betterment of the schools, roads, road signs, shelters, playground equipment and other community facilities.

NEWS OF THE LEVITTOWN COMMUNITY

"TV" AERIALS APPEAR AS FAMILIES MOVE IN

One of 1st Pieces of "Equipment" For New Levittown Houses

CLERGYMEN PAY CALLS

By Staff Reporter

LEVITTOWN, July 16—What is one of the first pieces of equipment a new family secures for its Levittown home? You guessed it—a television aerial.

They are appearing here and there all over the village. The kids of Levittown are lucky indeed. There is something to take their attention from morning to night.

The boys, especially, are thrilled with the activity of the countless trucks, bulldozers, moving vans, delivery trucks, screen installation men, the ditch digging equipment, and the cranes. There is the noise of the whistles and the pondering on what they mean; an occasional sound of blasting; and the felling of trees. Linemen as they climb up and down poles, oft times have a "following" of small boys.

Things really shine here. Even the garbage cans, for most of them are new. The paint glitters, many a householder adding touches here and there. There is the sheen of new window screens after the screen-man's trailer pulls away from a job.

The clergymen of the area have little time on their hands these days. They are paying calls to new arrivals, and when no one is found at home, the pastor's card is added to the collection of newspapers, mail, and advertising material left by others during the day.

In addition to the house numbers, some residents are placing "nameplates" on their new residences. In some instances printed or penned cards are used near the knockers; others have special signs prepared, with letters three and four inches high.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bowman and daughter Irene spent July 4-5-6 at Coatesville. The following week was spent at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lynn, Ocean City, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. William Welker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pittman spent Saturday at Asbury Park, N. J. Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Welker were Mr. and Mrs. William Hazlett and daughter Jean, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wells, Sr., and son LeRoy, Jr., Philadelphia.

Gustav Kaecheln, Jr., is vacationing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepherd, Milton, Del.

The Greeks declared their independence in January, 1822.

LEVITTOWN, July 16—Their first experience of living "in the country," Mr. and Mrs. Albert DiGiovanni are playing host and hostess these days to relatives from their former home-city, Philadelphia.

The DiGiovannis scarcely had furniture put "to rights" at 79 Stonybrook drive, than they decided that they "just love it" here. So do their two children, Barbara, 18 months, and Albert, three years.

"Lady," the family dog, a mongrel, is happy wherever the family is.

The DiGiovanni family has had a number of visitors to the new home, and at the end of the week they entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. Petrongio and children, of Berlin, N. J.; and Mrs. A. Petrongio, Sr., Philadelphia. The little guests joined the DiGiovanni tots in making "mud pies," a new experience for some of the kiddies.

Mrs. DiGiovanni enjoys swimming, and is looking forward to completion of swimming pools here.

we've almost reached the limit of our borrowing capacity. I'm not trying to kid anyone. We must have more water."

Anderson pointed out that through a lease-back arrangement with the Authority the borough could continue to realize $15,000 annually from "pipe privileges."

Dillwyn Darlington, borough solicitor, advised council to meet with the Authority and carefully examine all the terms of the lease and other matters involved in such a transaction before making a decision.

He said council could go ahead on a stop-gap plan that has been authorized to renovate the borough filtering plant. Council set July 28 as the date for meeting.

Police Chief John S. Davis announced that a speed trap would become effective within a week or 10 days on W. Bridge st. between Harding and Keystone aves. He said speed trap signs have been erected recently.

Davis said that was being done as a last resort in an attempt to stop speeding on that thoroughfare. All other methods, he said, have failed.

closed it and then they pushed the door open. They took the money from Mason, according to their statement, and told him to keep quiet. As they left the hotel, Mason set up a yell.

Bristol police were called and Officers Dugan and Spinelli responded. Engard and Schwartz were taken into custody in the vicinity of Buckley street. Schwartz surrendered to the police but Engard attempted an escape but was caught by Officer Dugan.

KAISER SCORES ALL RUNS IN 5TH TO DEFEAT 3M

Kaiser Metal scored all its runs in the fifth inning last evening as it won over 3M's, 5-2, on Memorial field in a Bristol Softball League tilt.

The Kaisermen scored its quintet of tallies on four hits and two walks. The runs were made off "Jim" Katz who was replaced in the beetle frame by George Wallace.

Chuck Stansky, Kaiser hurler, almost repeated his performance of Monday evening when he pitched a no-hit game. Last evening, all he permitted was a skippy single to center by "Chuck" Hinkle in the third inning.

In the last three games, 3M's has made but one hit.

Stansky struck out seven and walked three. Two of his passes, mixed with errors, gave the scotch-tape makers their runs.

Hinkle played a fine fielding game in center for the losing team while Frank Barbetta handled Stansky well behind the plate.

GIANTS AND VFW BATTLE TO TIE

The Giants and V. F. W. teams of the Bristol Boys League battled to a 3-3 deadlock last evening on Leedom's field. The Vets rallied in the final inning to score twice and knot the score.

Both Williams and Brown pitched good ball. Trasatti had two of the VFW's five hits while Klein and Katz shared half of the Giants' safe hits.

Friday evening, the Giants and the Hawks will play out the remainder of the game of June 2nd. This game was protested by the Giants when the umpire called the game. The arbitration board reached a decision to continue the game from when it was called. This game will begin at six o'clock with the regularly scheduled game to follow.

CRYDON COMETS SRS. BEAT FALLSINGTON

The Croydon Comets senior team beat Fallsington in a Tri-County League game at the Comets' home field, which is Delhaas Jr. High field, by a score of 8 to 4. Eddie Tinsman allowed 7 hits but when he got in trouble he bore down and had what it takes to get himself out of it until the last inning, when he came on and one out Joe Ritter came in and pitched one ball for the third Comet double play and the end of the game. Lou Loeffler had his best game of the season, having 6 assists and getting 3 singles and a triple for 4 times at bat, while Bill Struble at second base was all any manager could ask for defensively. Shepherd of Fallsington pitched a nice game for 5 innings but 4 errors beat him in the 6th inning.

January 5th marks "George Washington Carver" day.

Civil Rights To Plague Democrats

which radiated from the southern wing of the Democratic party.

Lehman disclosed that he wants as strong a civil rights plank as in 1948 plus a proviso calling for a new Senate rule to break filibusters.

It was the 1948 civil rights plank which touched off a Southern revolt and put a third party presidential candidate in the field.

House majority leader McCormack of Massachusetts, chairman of the platform committee, has put off witnesses on civil rights until Thursday. He called representatives of farm organizations to testify today.

They are expected to ask further measures in support of farm prices and in general to duplicate testimony given 10 days ago before the GOP platform committee. The non-controversial farm hearings have been all but obscured by the storm brewing over civil rights.

Witnesses on civil rights will parade to the microphone on Thursday. The leadership conference on civil rights, representing 51 organizations, has called a news conference late today to spotlight their presentation.

Roy Wilkins, chairman of the executive committee of the affiliated groups, said the organization will press for an even stronger plank than in 1948. He said the group wants a change in Senate

Seek Her Killer

NEW YORK POLICE have begun an all-out manhunt for the slayer of blonde Eileen Fahey, 18, who was shot to death by an unknown assailant as she sat at her desk in an office on the Columbia University campus. A leading theory on which detectives are working is that the girl was slain by a love-crazed, secret admirer she may not have known. (Internationa' rules to make it possible to break filibusters by a majority vote instead of the 64 votes now required.

The affiliated groups will demand also a compulsory Fair Employment Practices Commission, anti-lynching and anti-poll tax provisions in the platform—all stormy requests.

However, the campaign manager of Sen. Russell—the South's leading presidential aspirant — flatly predicted the Democratic party will be able to avoid a convention floor fight on civil rights.

Sen. Johnson of Colorado, said: "From what I can learn, the platform committee will be able to adopt a plank on civil rights which while it will please no one, will be acceptable to both sides of the controversy."

Alabama's Sen. Sparkman also talked of a compromise. He said he thought something "acceptable" could be worked out.

But Lehman declared: "I am going to fight for a civil rights plank as strong as the one in 1948. I've heard a lot of talk about a compromise to avoid a convention fight but I am going to insist on a strong plank with a provision modifying the Senate cloture (filibuster) rule so we can get the (civil rights) program through."

A Democratic leader said that if a way could be found to reword the 1948 plank so that both North and South could "accept" it, a floor fight would be avoided. But he said such word-carving would require a "sharper knife" than as yet has been found.

Francis Biddle, Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, demanded a plank to "protect civil liberties, including freedom of opinion, speech and political action."

Biddle said that about 100 delegates and alternates to the Democratic convention who are members of ADA had been asked to attend a meeting of the organization's board Sunday. He predicted the meeting will agree "on effective strategy for victory on a strong civil rights plank."

KITCHEN CLUES

By Olga Curtis

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

If your family likes meat on the table every day, you probably have a lot of trouble keeping the food budget down to a reasonable level.

Try variety meats. They're economical and flavorful, too. Variety meats are such items as liver, kidney, tongue or heart. All these are a good source of iron and the B vitamins. Livers and kidneys also are rich in vitamin A.

You can get beef, pork or lamb liver. The calf liver, which is the mildest and probably the tastiest, is seldom in the real economy class. However, a portion of liver weighs less than most other meat servings, and the price even out that way.

If you've got to buy cheaply, pork liver is the least expensive. But, it has a pretty strong flavor, and takes careful handling.

All liver has very little fat, which is one good reason why it's usually cooked with bacon. You can boil, fry or braise liver, but don't overcook it or it will be tough.

Pork and beef kidneys are the kind you usually find in stores. Pork, calf or lamb kidneys are all very tender. Beef kidneys are tough—and the best thing to do with them is braise them or cook them in water.

The most common variety meat is tongue, which is available fresh, smoked, corned or pickled.

As for hearts, remember beef, pork, lamb and calf hearts all are muscle meat, and will be tough unless cooked right.

The best way to cook hearts is to boil them in salted water until they're tender. Some people like roasted hearts, but you still ought to soften them up with some parboiling first. If you plan to roast or bake hearts, remember to brush them with fat, this being another variety meat that has very little fat of its own.

Very often, a woman will buy variety meats and cook them, but will be disappointed in the results. In many cases, it's neither the meat nor the cooking that's to blame. It's just that the meat was not cooked promptly. These are all meats that should be used as fresh as possible for the best results. If you can, buy them and use them immediately. If not, store them in your refrigerator and use them within a couple of days.

UNDERSTANDING AIDS CHILD WHO STUTTERS

By Francis Vannoy

Home Economics Extension Representative

Stuttering is embarrassing and annoying to persons who stutter and to those with whom they talk. Although there is no definite knowledge as to the cause of stuttering, there are some things that can help people to understand it better.

Stuttering most often starts in early childhood and parents are likely to worry when their children begin to stutter. It will help to understand stuttering if everyone remembers that speech is the medium of social contact and the means of expressing thoughts, feelings, and ideas. There are emotional factors that play a part. Gradually these take a bigger and bigger role until they are the dominant issue.

Almost all children, when beginning to talk, show signs of hesitation and repetition. In the non-stutterer this period is of short duration. As the child's vocabulary increases, a certain amount of tenseness may show up in the repetition of words or sounds.

As stuttering becomes more definite, parents may show concern. Some of their remarks make the child for the first time anxious about his speech. He will begin to show tension and certain sympathetic signs in other parts of his body. Gradual loss of confidence and security in speech situations may lower self-esteem and a pattern of stuttering results.

When parents see stuttering in this light, they understand how their diagnosis and attitudes toward the child play a major role. Free and open discussion of stuttering will help to remove some of the mystery that surrounds it. One of the best helps for stuttering is to reduce the child's fears and to increase his self-confidence.
